NORMAN H. WHITE BAILED IN $7,500

PLEADS NOT GUILTY OF LARCENY AND F[illegible] BANKRUPTCY PA[illegible]

... Only a few hours after pleading not guilty to [illegible] counts of larceny, contained in eight indictments, [illegible] late, once candidate for Governor, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy today in Federal District Court.

He listed direct liabilities as $18,4[illegible] 256, with contingent liabilities of $1,200,000. His assets were estimated not to exceed $100,000.

The publisher and former legislator had been in Suffolk Superior Criminal Court earlier in the day, and he pleaded not guilty to each larceny count.

On three of the eight indictments, White was held in a total of $7,500 bail, but on the other five he was held in $500 each in personal recognizance.

All allegations are in connection with loans alleged to have been obtained from Suffolk County banks on fraudulent representation that his firms, the Boston Bookbinding Co. and Small, Maynard & Co., were in a sound financial condition.

Bail was furnished by White's

REED, FORD'S COUNSEL, GRILLS THREE JURORS

Detroit, March 15 (A.P.).—The Ku Klux Klan, "international Jewery," co-operative marketing organizations and farmers' associations figured largely in the questioning today of prospective jurors in the $1,000,000 suit in United States District Court against Henry Ford.

The crowds in the courtroom crained their necks eagerly in hopes of seeing Ford, but were disappointed.

Ford will appear when he is wanted, said Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, chief of Ford's counsel. As to when that will be, no one is certain.

A motion of counsel for Aaron Sapiro, who is suing Ford because of a series of articles in the Dearborn Independent, which he charges injured his character by accusing him of being a member of a Jewish conspiracy to control agriculture, was denied by Judge Fred M. Raymond.

Sapiro had asked to have the plea of Ford stricken out because justification of charges of libel was not made and the terms were evasive.

The prospective jurors, five of whom are women, were questioned closely by Judge Raymond as to whether anything they had read or heard would in any way affect their reaching a fair and impersonal verdict.

One other woman was barred because of intimate acquaintance with Mrs. Ford.

They were asked whether they or any of their families belonged to the Ku Klux Klan, or any of a number of farmers' organizations. Witnesses to be called are from all parts of the county, but none of the veniremen seemed to know them.

Senator Reed drew from J. B. Garrison, of Jackson, Mich., a postal clerk, that he had once belonged to the Ku Klux Klan but had withdrawn two years ago. He said he had joined because of curiosity and

ABANDONED TO HIS FATE IN SOUTH STATION

WHO IS THIS BOY'S MOTHER?

This hazel-eyed, husky boy of two weeks found a dozen mothers in the Chardon Street Temporary Home for Women. He cried ceaselessly for the mother who had thrust him from her, and women of the home remained by his crib in turns throughout the night. The Division of Child Guardianship received the child today and instituted a search for his parents. Not a clue could be found on his clothes to assist in the quest.

BROWNING IS WINNER IN SEPARATION SUIT; WIFE FAILS TO GET ALIMONY

By LOUIS W. FEHR
(Copyright, 1927, by New York American, and Universal Service. Reproduction in Whole or in Part Prohibited.)

New York, March 15.—"Daddy" Browning has won the famous separation suit he brought against "Peaches." "Peaches" has lost her counter-suit against "Daddy," and with it any chance of getting alimony.

Supreme Court Justice A. H. F. Seeger has prepared an opinion embodying these findings. The opinion will be filed, unless last-minute changes are made in his plans, with a county clerk today.

Elaborate precautions to prevent any leak in the decision did not succeed in keeping Universal Service from obtaining authoritative advance information of its contents.

Justice Seeger repelled any suggestion that he make the decision

TIE VOTE KILLS DRY REFERENDUM IN HOUSE

A tie vote—118 to 118—killed the liquor referendum bill in the House late today. Speaker John C. Hull had his name recorded, voted against the bill and tied the count, killing the measure.

The "wets" and "drys" of Massachusetts locked horns today in the death struggle over the legislative bill providing for a referendum, at the next general election, to determine whether or not a majority of the voters of the Bay State favor abolition or amendment of the Volstead act.

The galleries of the House were filled to capacity when the arguments on the bill were taken up.

Superintendent Fergrave of the Anti-Saloon League occupied a prominent place in the galleries, while the "wet" leaders were equally in evidence.

In order to give everyone an opportunity to speak on the bill debate for each speaker was limited to five minutes.

Representative Slater Washburn of Worcester in speaking for the referendum measure declared that 18 out of 29 organizations who were interested in the question of prohibition were in favor of the referendum. Rep. Andrew P. Doyle of New Bedford also spoke for the measure.

POLITE BANDIT GIVEN 8 YEARS AT CONCORD

Herman B. Weltz, "polite bandit," was today sentenced to eight years in Concord Reformatory by Judge Fosdick in Suffolk Superior Criminal Court.

Weltz, twenty years of age and a bridegroom of only a few months, was nonchalant as the court pronounced the sentence, but his bride, who occupied a seat just back of the prisoner's bench, was shaken with sobs.

Weltz was arrested after police of the Back Bay were on edge for days as a result of the daring robberies that occurred in that section, the victims invariably being women.

Following his arrest Weltz admitted having engineered five holdups. He declared, when arrested in the Public Garden, that he was engaged in his last holdup when taken. He declared that the illness of his wife drove him to banditry.

LEOPOLD IN A HUGE PRISON POISON PLOT

Chicago, March 15 (A.P.).—A plot to empty Joliet Penitentiary of its 1,200 inmates by wholesale poisoning of the guards has been revealed to prison authorities and Chicago police by a paroled convict.

The plot, set for execution next Saturday, is the third of a series, behind all of which looms the sinister figure of Nathan Leopold, Jr., plotter and co-executor of the murder in Chicago of little Bobbie Franks.

It was Leopold, the officers have been told, who conceived the original prison break in which seven men escaped after killing a deputy warden, only to have six of the seven recaptured and sentenced to hanging for murder.

It was Leopold, too, prison reports said, who financed last Saturday's break from Joliet Jail—a break in which three of the six captured in first escape reached freedom and shot to death a policeman. Two later were recaptured.

Leopold is not linked directly with the latest escape plot as told to officers by Leo Delgoda, paroled convict, but it was Leopold's original plotting, Delgoda relates, that inspired the scheme to evacuate the penitentiary

Golden Voyage Lure of Movie Contest

THE attention of Boston Evening American readers who know the movies and the people of the movies is most respectfully directed to the Who's Who in the Movies competition, which will begin in these columns on Monday, next.

The competition will continue for only 14 publication days, at the end of which period the reader who finishes first will be awarded a 25-day tour of the Caribbean Sea, with visits to important points in Central America.

In addition to his (or her) personal success, the winner of the Who's Who in the Movies competition will be given the privilege of choosing a traveling companion.

This cruise over the Golden Caribbean will be made in one of the Great White Fleet ships of the United Fruit Company.

These ships carry only one class of passengers: first class.

This means that the entire ship is really the home of those who travel on it. There are no sections set apart for the use of second or public except by filing it at Carmel. In order to protect its secrecy until it should be actually on file he planned to give it and the exhibits in the case to a trusted messenger only.

YOUNG MRS. BROWNING LOSES IN HER FIGHT FOR SEPARATION

ALIMONY PLEA ALSO REFUSED

The next move in the case will be for John E. Mack, of Poughkeepsie, the successful lawyer in the case to prepare findings of fact and conclusions of law in accordance with Justice Seeger's opinion. Alternative findings may be submitted by Henry Epstein, lawyer for "Peaches." The findings adopted by Justice Seeger will become the formal decision.

Justice Seeger's dismissal of "Peaches'" separation suit will compel her, if she desires future support from "Daddy," to offer to come back to him on his own terms. He is at liberty to decline the offer.

MAY TAKE HER BACK

Observers of the case, however, consider it probable that he would accept such an offer if made, and that his principal condition would be an elimination of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Carolyn Heenan, from the domestic establishment.

On behalf of Justice Seeger, it was said that the secrecy with which he surrounded his decision until actually filed was his refusal to consider the famous Browning case any different from any other matrimonial action. It was said that his action in declining to bar newspaper reporters from the trial some weeks ago was in accord with his present policy.

Since both Browning and Mrs. Browning each sued for separation, Justice Seeger had two alternatives. He could find that Browning's conduct, as charged by Mrs. Browning, constituted legal cruelty.

NO RIGHT TO ALIMONY

In that event he would have awarded her a separation and dismissed Browning's suit. Then, after deciding the main issue in her favor, he would have proceeded to set the amount of support, maintenance or alimony to which she would be entitled.

In fixing this he would have taken into consideration Browning's wealth and the style in which the couple lived during the wedded life together.

A dismissal of her suit gives her the right to no alimony, since a wife is not entitled to separate maintenance unless she is legally justified in separating from her husband.

The other alternative was to dismiss Mrs. Browning's suit, as Justice Seeger is doing, and to grant judgment to Browning on the ground of his wife's unjustified abandonment.

Had the suits been for divorce, instead of for separation, as in the Stillman case, Justice Seeger might have dismissed Browning's suit as well as Mrs. Browning's counter suit, in case he should have found that Browning had not come into the court with the "clean hands" required by equity practice.

In arriving at his decision to dismiss "Peaches'" counter action and to give "Daddy" a legal separation on the ground of abandonment, Justice Seeger carefully considered the evidence. He has been long on the bench, first as county judge of was brought into port here today.

Orange County and more recently as supreme court justice in the ninth judicial district.

Before his elevation to the bench he was a successful trial lawyer.

Browning Case Judge in an Angry Mood

White Plains, N. Y., March 15 (I.N.S.).—Published reports that the "Peaches" Browning separation suit had resulted in a decision in favor of the elderly real estate man aroused the ire of Supreme Court Justice Albert H. F. Seeger here today.

Justice Seeger, who presided at the trial and in whose hands the case rests, arrived here today from his home in Newburgh to preside at the regular trial term of court. He closeted himself in his chambers and declined to see newspapermen, threatening to "pitch through the window" any reporter who attempted to question him.

Justice Seeger is at liberty to file his decision either here or in Carmel. His present indignation gave rise to indications that the decision now will not be handed down until tomorrow at least, for observers at the court house believe that his present mood will cause him to temporarily withhold judgment.

SHIP'S BRIDE
Fraulein Erna Waibl, 20, who finds the end of girlhood romance on board the big liner Cleveland.

Rudolph Stern, leather expert of Salem, and Erna Waibl of Heilbroun, Germany, were married today by Dr. Arthur T. Brooks of Dudley Street Baptist Church as the liner docked at Commonwealth Pier. The matron of honor was Mrs. Myrtle Cohlenz of Mattapan and the best man Daniel J. Harkins,

CHEERS AND SHRIEKS AS CUPID PLAYS ROLE

Cheered by hundreds of passengers lining the bridge deck, while ferryboats and harbor craft furnished a welcome to a ship returning after an absence of twelve years, Miss Erna Waibl, twenty-year-old fraulein of Germany, became the bride of Rudolph Stern, Salem leather expert. The Hamburg-American line steamship Cleveland docked at Commonwealth Pier today.

The ceremony was performed by Dr. Arthur T. Brooks of the Dudley Street Baptist Church. Mrs. Myrtle Cohlenz of No. 640 River street, Mattapan, matron of honor and Daniel J. Harkins, local agent for the line, officiated as best man.

The wedding completes a romance started in childhood while both were neighbors at Heilbroun. More than a year ago Stern left his sweetheart's side to take up his work as expert leather dyer, in America. Promises were made amid the affectionate parting and love missives interchanged across the Atlantic, containing the plans realized today.

ROYAL WELCOME.

The Cleveland was given a royal welcome as fireboats 44 and 47 met the liner off Castle Island. Water display and whistling of harbor craft added to the celebration with answering blasts from the liner.

Captain Conrad Luck, skipper of the vessel on her trip from Hamburg and Queenstown, reentered the harbor for the first time in thirty years. Following his visit to the custom house, to enter his vessel, and a formal survey of the waterfront, he praised the facilities of the port in glowing terms.

More than 100 passengers were debarked at this port, before continuing to New York with several hundred more.

FAMOUS PAINTER.

Professor Nicola Michailow, internationally famous portrait painter and protege of ex-King Ferdinand of Bulgaria, was among those aboard. Michailow is continuing to New York to work on portraits of several prominent men. During the trip he finished a portrait of Captain Luck.

Others aboard were Sherwood Anderson, novelist, returning from a European vacation trip with Mrs. Anderson; Jenee Gibson, feminine playwright, returning from London, Paris and Berlin and a study of plays; Emma Poguet of Chapaqua, N. Y., and Mary Dubsky en route from Austria-Hungary.

Bostonians aboard included Marta Buchmann, Herbert Celenius, Gustave Ecker, Anna Romano, Mary Tynan and Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Giblin.

"Boston is one of the greatest Irish cities in the world. As Mayor of this remarkable city, I deem it a proud privilege to welcome you within it's gates."

This was the greeting extended by Mayor Nichols to Captain Conrad Leck, at City Hall today, in token of his appreciation of the greeting Captain Lock presented the Mayor with a doll for Marjorie Nichols, his daughter.

mother-in-law, Mrs. Nellie H. Stone of Brookline.

Declan Corcoran, associate defense counsel with Major Thomas Walsh, filed and was granted a motion for permission to change White's plea later if the defense should so desire.

The Suffolk County allegations involve a total sum in loans of $461,500, but the filing of voluntary petitions in bankruptcy for both companies headed by White brought the suspension of the Waldo (Me.) Trust Co. and three of its branches in Maine.

Also, according to charges still held in the District Attorney's office but not under his jurisdiction, banks in New York, New Hampshire and Ohio are involved.

The eight Boston banks included in the charges on which White was arraigned, and the sums involved are:

Liberty Trust Co., $37,500.
Exchange Trust Co., $50,000.
State Street Trust Co., $102,300.
Federal National Bank, $50,000.
Old Colony Trust Co., $75,000.
Jamaica Plain Trust Co., $4,000.
American Trust Co., $110,000.
Citizens National Bank, $145,000.

It is expected that White will also have to face charges in Maine, for he borrowed, according to the charges, some of the money to support the two companies now bankrupt from a Maine bank of which he was one of the directors.

Also, he faces the possibility of appearing in Federal court to answer like charges.

While Boston banks bring the direct charges which White faces today, banks all over the East are interested in the cases against the Brookline man, including big banking institutions in New York, Worcester, Cambridge, Hartford, Easthampton Quincy, Malden, Exeter, N. H., and Baltimore.

The accusation against White, in brief and stripped of legal verbiage, is that he borrowed from each of these banks to procure money to run the two Boston companies, without informing the bank officials at the various individual institutions that he was heavily indebted to other banks.

The loans, according to the investigators headed by Police Inspector John A. Dorsey, range from a few thousand dollars to $75,000 next Saturday by killing the guards with arsenic, to be put in their coffee.

"Leopold planned the original penitentiary escape," Delgoda said in a story printed today in the Herald and Examiner. "From his friends outside he obtained $8,000 to finance the flight of himself and his picked associates, first to Detroit, thence to Canada and finally to Mexico."

OTHERS IN PLOT.

Delgoda said the original plot provided for the escape with Leopold, of Bernardo Rua, Gregorio Rizzo and Robert Torres, the three Mexicans who broke from the Joliet jail last Saturday. Of this trio Rua is still at large.

Charles Shuder, Charles Buchowski and Walter Stalesky—who were under sentence with the Mexicans to hang for slaying the deputy warden in the original penitentiary break—also were to have been included.

Leopold, according to Delgoda's story, lost his courage and turned sick at the sight of the blood of the deputy warden killed by his fellow convicts, and that was why he did not attempt flight.

Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker, one of those who heard Delgoda's story, said that early checking of its details indicated the story to be virtually correct.

The coffee which is given the guards is prepared by convict workers in the prison kitchens. Delgoda was employed in the kitchen.

WOULD SHIFT COTTAGE FARM BRIDGE SITE

Abandonment of all work in connection with the new Cottage Farm bridge, estimated to save cost $250,000, and the relocation of the bridge was the proposal made to the House Ways and Means committee today by Chairman Henry I. Harriman of the metropolitan planning division.

The route Harriman proposed for the new location would start at Audubon road and Ivy street, with a viaduct to Bay State road, thence over a bridge to Memorial drive and Amesbury street, Cambridge, thence of the viaduct across the railroad tracks and Waverly street to Putnam avenue, Cambridge.

An alternate to this plan, he said would be to change the existing plan at Cottage Farm bridge and go back to the proposal of earth fills at each end with a single 170-foot river span thus narrowing the river at the point.

While there would be some less on work already done, under this plan, Harriman said, the railroad could be carried across on only two piers instead of the present planned seven pile piers.

It developed that there is a dispute with the New York Central road over the construction of the railroad bridge under the Cottage Farm location. The road, he said, wants the State to change its plan on piers. If this is done, an additional $176,000 must be appropriated bringing the cost of the bridge up to $1,425,000 and $125,000 to be put back by the road.

FORT POINT CHANNEL BOARD IS PROPOSED

Further study of the proposal for filling in the present navigable waters of Fort Point Channel above the Dorchester Avenue Bridge was today recommended by the House Ways and Means Committee.

The study would be made by a commission consisting of the commissioners of public health, the chairman of the Metropolitan Planning Division and the Boston City Planning Board.

WILL FISH FOR TROUT IN 'SAME OLD BROOK'

Plymouth, Vt., March 15.—Even though President Coolidge plans to spend his official Summer vacation somewhere in the mid-West, Plymouth is preparing to entertain the President and his wife for their customary fortnight "back home."

It is understood that no matter what plans are made for the official Summer vacation of the White House, there will be no interference with the annual trip to the old Coolidge homestead here and Plymouth is making its plans for the entertainment of the nation's chief executive and the first lady of the land.

Plymouth feels keenly its lack of piscatorial advantages, now that the President has become an ardent disciple of Izaak Walton so steps have been taken to assure the President of some excellent fishing when he arrives here.

Pinney Hollow brook flows through the old Coolidge property and a year ago the President whipped this stream with a trout rod in a vain effort to land a speckled beauty or two.

Herb Moore, former game warden and fisherman of note has taken it upon himself to see there is no fishing fiasco this year. He has stocked the stream with some fine specimens of trout and an excellent day's sport is promised the President on his arrival.

That the President and Mrs. Coolidge will come here for their customary two weks is taken as a matter of course by the villagers.

"If you had been coming here every year for thirty years I guess you'd keep it up," is the way Miss Florence V. Cilley, postmistress and general store proprietor sums up the situation for the entire community.

RAISING $100,000 ANTI FUND TO DEFEAT DRY REFERENDUM

CHARGE MADE BY CIVIC LEAGUE IN BAY STATE

Charges that the Massachusetts branch of the Anti-Saloon League is raising $100,000 to fight the proposed referendum on prohibition was made today in letters received by members of the Legislature from William H. Mitchell, chairman of the Liberal Civic League of Massachusetts.

The accusation comes on the eve of the first test of strength between the wets and drys in the House. By agreement, debate on the referendum bill, which was reported favorably by the Committee on Legal Affairs by a vote of eight to seven, is scheduled for late this afternoon.

POLICY OF THE ANTIS.

"In keeping with the policy of suppressing all popular expression of opinion upon the liquor problem, adopted and practiced by the Anti-Saloon League through the United States since the acceptance of prohibition, the Anti-Saloon League here is fighting tooth and nail to prevent the people of this State from expressing their opinion relative to the 18th Amendment and the Volstead Enforcement Act, after seven years of experience with these laws," the Mitchell letter read.

"It is known that nationally the Anti-Saloon League spent $35,000,000 to put prohibition over. We understand that the Reed investigation disclosed the fact that this organization has spent $12,000,000 in support of prohibition and the Volstead Act since 1920.

RAISING $100,000 FUND.

"The Massachusetts unit of this organization raised and spent $600,000 last year, and it is now appealing to its supporters throughout the State for a fund of $100,000 with which to fight our proposed referendum or any modifying change whatsoever in the existing liquor law situation."

GENERAL NEWS SECTION

BAY STATE VET FOUND HANGING IN FLORIDA

Clarence Burge, 28, war veteran of Watertown, was found dead from hanging in the cellar of a building in Miami, Fla., today, according to dispatches received in Boston.

Because of suspicious features, Miami police believe he was murdered. He was unmarried.

The Miami authorities reported that circumstances pointed to the suspicion that a suicide by hanging had been simulated in order to conceal evidence of foul play. They said the rope around the victim's neck apparently had not been the cause of death. An autopsy has been ordered.

The probe took this turn despite a note found in the pocket of Burge's coat which read:

"I'm dying of tuberculosis. Notify relatives."

The war veteran's mother, Mrs. Fred Burge of No. 418 North Beacon street, Watertown, said today:

"My son was not suffering from tuberculosis or any other disease. He was happy and healthy when we last heard from him in December. Clarence left home five years ago to go South for employment and not for his health. He was a rugged young man when he left here.

"No member of the family has ever been afflicted with that disease. There must be something back of his untimely death.

"I shall leave the matter of investigation to his father, who is at present working in Stanford, Ct."

The dead youth's father, Fred Burge, is employed as superintendent of construction for the C. W. Blakeslee Company of New Haven.

MALDEN GIRL IS DYING; WOMAN DOCTOR HELD

While Gertrude Powers of Bryant street, Malden, lay in a critical condition at Melrose Hospital today, Dr. Elizabeth Abbe, fifty, of Dale street, Roxbury, was arraigned and released on $5,000 bail in Roxbury District Court, charged with illegal practice.

The doctor, who twice before has been charged with similar offense, was arrested after the girl told her story. She pleaded not guilty, waived reading of the complaint and was ordered to appear for trial March 30.

The man in the case is unknown to the police, the Malden girl refusing to reveal his name, even though she was told she might die.

To Inspector James A. Dennessey of the homicide bureau Captain William W. Livingston and Sergeant Marsh the girl told her story, with only the name of the man omitted. She said she sought out Dr. Abbe in February. For several days she was convalescent, then she had a relapse and her condition rapidly became worse.

More than 500 members of the Massachusetts Daughters of the American Revolution are gathered in Boston for the two-day annual conference and convention. The Statler Hotel is headquarters for the convention, which will close at noon, tomorrow.

Mrs. James Charles Peabody, State regent, presided today when the convention was called to order, after which the scripture was read and prayer was offered by Rev. Percy T. Edrop of Belmont. A memorial session for deceased members was held during the afternoon. The disposal of resolutions will constitute the major portion of the business at the closing session tomorrow.

The Merchant of Venice — Shakespeare's Immortal Drama

"How like the prodigal doth she return
With over-weather'd ribs and ragged sails!"

Antonio, who had borrowed 3,000 ducats from the usurer Shylock, giving a bond with a pound of flesh as forfeit, was stunned by news that his ships, laden with precious goods, had been lost in a fearful storm at sea.

"Thou call'dst me dog before thou hadst a cause;
But since I am a dog beware my fangs."

The three months stipulated in the bond had expired, and the relentless Shylock came to Antonio, demanding his money. Antonio told him his fortune had been wiped out and Shylock pitilessly demanded his forfeit.

"I'll not be made a soft and dull-eyed fool,
To shake the head, relent, and sigh and yield."

Antonio was thrown into prison, as was customary with debtors at that period. Shylock was merciless, determined to wreak his revenge upon the man who had always scorned him for his methods in usury.

"Bid your friends welcome, show a merry cheer,
Since you are dear bought, I will love you dear!"

Bassanio, now married to Portia, the heiress, and his friend, Gratiano, who had wed Portia's maid, Nerissa, heard of Antonio's plight. Portia bade Bassanio take money to pay three times the sum, and hasten to his friend.

ACCUSES ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

shortly after filling the referendum bill, the Liberal Civic League asked the antisaloon organization to cooperate with it in its effort to get at the true sentiment of the State in regard to prohibition, and was advised that the referendum would be fought with all the resources at the dry organization's command.

WHY THE OPPOSITION.

Pointing out that "reasonable minded drys and fair minded wets in all sections of the State are in favor of such a referendum," Mitchell asks these questions:

"Why does the Anti-Saloon League oppose a referendum in Massachusetts?

"Why have they always opposed referenda on this question throughout the country?

"Are they afraid of the voice of the people?

"Do they repudiate the fundamental right of the people to participate directly in the making and sustaining of laws?

"If the State is dry, as the Anti-Saloon League says it is, the referendum that we advocate will not only demonstrate this fact but will strengthen law enforcement," the writer argues.

"If the people desire to have the existing liquor laws repealed or modified they have a constitutional right to so advise their representatives in Congress."

In concluding his letter, Mitchell characterizes the propaganda of the Anti-Saloon League "as the propaganda of an extremist group that consistently manifests militant distrust of the people."

Schwab, Back, Predicts a Year of Prosperity

New York, March 15 (A.P.)—Completing his seventieth trans-Atlantic voyage which he thought might be his final trip abroad, Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, expressed optimism on his return today on the outlook for the steel industry this year. Europe was improving financially, he said, one of the reasons being the prosperity of the European steel carriers. Germany also was doing very well.

"Europeans with whom I talked," Mr. Schwab said, "were greatly interested in the fact that we have $5,000,000,000,000 invested in the steel industry in the United States, and we are only getting a 5 per cent. yield on our money. America will not have to worry about foreign competition in the steel industry."

Mr. Schwab said he attributed most of his success to the fact that he always had the friendliest cooperation from the newspapers.

"It was the newspapers who made my war work possible," he added.

During the interview he declined an offer of a cigaret.

"I never smoke," he said. "In fact I never started. I have no taste for it." Asked whether he had the same attitude toward liquor, he replied, "Well, I wouldn't say that exactly. But I am content with a drink a day. My physician prescribes it."

CALL IN POLICE FOR SCHOOLBOY

Police were called today to quell a disturbance in the office of Arthur P. Briggs, principal of the Shepherd Grammar School, Lynn, after he had attempted foe hastise Joseph Peloquin, a fifteen-year-old pupil, for playing truant.

Joseph was ordered by the principal to hold out his hand for a tanning, but he declined and attempted to break away. Following a chase around the room Joseph, it is alleged, grasped a pot of geraniums and hurled it at Briggs, striking the master over the eye and stunning him for several minutes.

Wielding an office chair, Joseph beat off the advances of Briggs until Officer Norman Phillips arrived and took him into custody.

At the police station Superintendent of Schools Harvey Gruicer said no charges would be made against the schoolboy until the affair was presented at the next meeting of the school committee.

DE VALERA IN BITTER ATTACK ON FREE STATE

New York, March 15 (A.P.)—Denouncing the Irish Free State for its administration, Eamon De Valera, one-time "President of the Irish Republic," declared that the 1921 treaty, which resulted in the establishment of the Free State constitution, was obtained only through coercion by Lloyd George upon Irish Republican delegates.

The throng of Irish Republican sympathizers, who packed Carnegie Hall to welcome De Valera, pledged moral and financial support to the Republican cause, approving, by acclaim, a resolution proposing an immediate drive for funds to be supplied De Valera before his return to Ireland.

The purpose of the funds, the resolution stated, is to place in the field, at the Irish elections in May, candidates pledged to the cause of "real Irish freedom."

Under Free State administration, De Valera told his audience, Ireland had become saddled with heavy taxes, high costs of government and excessive salaries for officials. This, he declared, had resulted in poverty which had driven 250,000 of the flower of Irish youth to emigrate to this country.

Court to Recess on St. Patrick's Day in Fund Case

New York, March 15 (A.P.).—Reading of depositions concerning various phases of the Irish political struggle in the suit of the Irish Free State to determine the ownership of $1,500,000, the remainder of a $6,000,000 fund raised here by a bond issue of the Irish republic, continued today before Supreme Court Justice Peters.

The pile of documents still to be read made it appear unlikely that Eamon De Valera, Irish leader and one of the trustees of the fund, would be called to the witness stand for several days. De Valera was in court.

The monotony of the proceedings was broken by a decision as to whether the court should hold a session on St. Patrick's day.

"I think if any case is entitled to adjournment on St. Patrick's day it is this case," said John W. Davis, former Democratic presidential candidate and one of the Free State counsel. The court agreed to the day off.

CONSTABLES IN RUM CASE TRIAL RE-ELECTED

As four Westport town constables, charged with conspiracy to smuggle liquor, put on their defence in Federal Court today, word reached them that three of their number were re-elected to office at a town meeting.

Those re-elected are Charles H. Hitt, Harry Sherman and Omer Brightman, while Philip Sherman was defeated. These four, together with William R. Wood and Carl C. Lewis, are accused of bringing ashore 500 cases of alcohol from the derelict schooner Dorothy Earle at Horseneck Beach.

Chief of Police Charles Livesey of Westport was angry at the constables for "putting something over on him by working on the beach all day without letting him know about it," according to testimony of a defence witness, Richard J. Sherrock, also a constable.

"The chief said it was a dirty trick," testified Sharrock, who quoted Chief Livesey as saying those things on the night the four constables were arrested by Federal agents. Sharrock declared the chief notified the Federal agents.

One of the arrested constables, Omer Brightman, was in uniform while at work on the beach when the arrests were made, testified Thomas W. Barnes, police chief of the town of Dartmouth, another witness in support of the defence claim that liquor landing was done "in line of duty."

This was offered in contradiction of testimony of Prohibition Agent Dennis F. Driscoll, who said none of the constables were in uniform.

Practically the entire population of Westport, men, women and children, witnessed the landing of the liquor, and the town school large was used to convey the landed cases to the Ocean House for storage, according to testimony by Frank B. Columbia, a special policeman.

Columbia said he was ordered by one of the constables to stand guard over the barge-load of alcohol and he expects remuneration from the town for the work that day. He admitted helping to carry several cases to a high, dry place on the beach.

DE JONY ESTATE CONSERVATOR

A conservator to handle the estate of Mrs. Blanche DeJony of Hellingham was appointed in Norfolk Probate court at Dedham, today, despite that fact that Mrs. DeJony and her husband, Ferdinand, have patched up their differences and are living together.

The litigation which has aroused widespread interest, was instituted when the husband, a former Rumanian soldeman, claimed that his wife was dissipating her fortune in a stone quarry venture near the DeJony estate.

The litigation was long drawn out, the biased evidencering to show that his wife had become unduly influenced by a Back Bay religious cult.

PHONE CHARGES WILL BE AIRED

Charges of "gross improprieties" on the part of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company in circulars to Representatives Thomas H. Cary and Maurice J. Tobin, both of Boston, and employes of the company to take "leaves of absence" following their voting in favor of anti-telephone bills in the House, will be aired tomorrow forenoon at the State House before the committee on rules.

The committee has before it two orders, one filed by Representative Richard D. Grodzwell of Medford, asking that the Public Utilities Commission investigate the policy and practices of the company in relation to its employes who are elected to public office, and the other for the administering of a public rebuke to the company.

'SUMMER' WILL LINGER HERE

A brief period of fair, cool weather, which has already reduced the temperature 2 to 14 degrees throughout the East, arrived in Boston early today for a 36-hour visit.

Following close upon the heels, according to the local weather bureau, is an energitic area of low barometric pressure, indicative of a return of the recent record-breaking March warm wave.

Forecast for Boston and vicinity: Fair tonight and Wednesday, slightly colder tonight; fresh northwest winds, diminishing and becoming west and south.

'PA" FERGUSON MAY LOSE HIS POLITICAL AMNESTY

Austin, Tex., Mar. 15 (A.P.)—James E. Ferguson today faced loss of his political rights for the second time as Governor Dan Moody, who ousted him in a bitter fight for nomination of the State Democratic ticket, considered meeting of a session which would repeal the amnesty granted him following his impeachment in October in 1917.

LUMBER TO REBUILD 'OLD IRONSIDES' ARRIVES

Several carloads of live oak timbers, for almost twenty-five years submerged in the briny waters at Pensacola, Fla., to retain their special qualities, arrived at the Charlestown Navy Yard today for use in the reconstruction of the famous frigate Constitution.

With pomp and ceremony the timbers were received by Captain Clinton M. Simmer, U. S. N., who is in charge of the work of restoring "Old Ironsides," and a group of fellow officers at the navy yard.

The semi-formal delivery of the timbers by the Boston & Maine Railroad, which had charge of the shipment, was made by Harrison Brown, general agent of the road.

TELLS QUIGLEY TO RETURN CITY BOOKS

"Unless former Mayor Lawrence E. Quigley returns $400 worth of books and office furnishings which mysteriously disappeared from the mayor's office when he quit I will take him into court," said Mayor John J. Whalen of Chelsea today.

"I will give Quigley just one week in which to return this property," he added.

"I went into City Hall Jan. 1 to clean up Chelsea and the first thing I learned was that the office into which I had moved was cleaned out.

"I am planning on calling on Asst. Atty. Foley to have him investigate just what became of this valuable property. Personally, nine desks and chair were left in the mayor's office for me."

According to Mayor Whalen the following articles are missing: One set of loose-leaved encyclopedia valued at $175.00, one set of books valued at $80.50, assessors valued at $103 which had been in the office since 1912; two United States flags, twenty-seven picture frames, twenty-five photographs, one set of Massachusetts General Laws and one staff officer.

Mayor Whalen assigned Police Lieutenant Henry J. Harrison to secure a return of these articles. He expected that he was quickly who denied taking any of them, and added that the flags were his own property.

REPORT BILL FOR PARKING SPACE AT NAHANT BEACH

Under a bill favorably reported today by the House Ways and Means Committee the Metropolitan District Commission would be authorized to construct parking space for autos on the western side of Nahant Beach between Nahant road and the street railway located on the parkway in Lynn and Nahant.

To carry out the project, an appropriation is asked of $8,000.

WANT HISTORIC SITES FREED FROM TAXATION

Authority to hold historic sites and memorials free from taxation, was asked by the Massachusetts Society, Sons of American Revolution, at a legislative hearing today at the State House.

Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long, at first opposed to the project, in a letter read to the committee favored the legislation.

BOY ADMITS HE KILLED GIRL, 16, ACCIDENTALLY

New York, March 15 (A.P.)—Walter Goldberg, 18, today confessed to the police he had "accidentally" shot and killed Anna Harris, 16 years old, Brooklyn High School honor student, at her home. Goldberg, who lived next door, was arrested after he had told conflicting stories of his movements.

100 BOOTLEGS OUT OF JOBS

One hundred Chelsea bootleggers are out of jobs, walking the streets, according to Mayor John J. Whalen.

"They can starve to death so far as I am concerned," added the Mayor, who insisted that they would not be given aid by the city poor department.

"I understand many of them are planning on calling on the city for aid," said the Mayor, "but they will not get any as long as I am Mayor. They have been living on the fat of the land and now let them go without for awhile."

"I am cleaning up Chelsea fast, as I promised the voters I would do. Since becoming Mayor on January 1 I have closed up fifty-two hotel joints in Chelsea. Only five more remain in the city and I will close them, too."

BLUE LAW OPPONENTS MUSTER BARE MAJORITY

Trenton, N. J., March 15 (A.P.)—Opponents of the New Jersey Blue Laws prohibiting all work and pleasure on Sunday mustered a bare majority to pass a committee bill permitting local option on Sunday observance on petition of 25 per cent. of the voters. Last week a measure requiring signatures of only 15 per cent. of voters to a poll for an election was lost in the Lower House.

GIRLS' CHANCES TO WED ARE BEST IN COUNTRY

New York, March 15 (A.P.)—If you wish to marry, girls, the chances are better in the country.

Ten per cent. more women between the ages of 20 and 44 living in rural districts marry than those living in cities, it is shown by a survey made in behalf of the Federal Council of Churches. The principal reason is high rent.

TELEPHONE CO. REFUSED POLES IN MONUMENT SQ.

The Boston Street Commissioners today refused a permit to the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company for the erection of six poles in Monument square, Charlestown.

More than a score of residents of the district, headed by Congressman George A. Douglass, appeared to protest against the permit. Carrie M. Shanahan, former assistant registrar in the elections department, presented a petition against the measure.

Gordon J. Gillard and Thomas M. Green, representing the telephone company, declared that the pole line was necessary if telephone service was to be maintained.

Governor Smith Plans to Eliminate Water Waste

New York State has not been taking full advantage of its great water power resources, according to Gov. Al Smith. He plans to stop the waste, if Republicans, who do not wish him to get the credit, do not interfere.

Neither does the W. E. Maloney Co. of 1195 Massachusetts avenue believe in waste or unnecessary expenditure. This firm inserted a Classified Ad in the Boston American and Advertiser to sell a Dodge Touring car. Their ad ran but one day and the car was sold. No waste of time or money here!

WAR MEMORIAL TOO LATE FOR THIS TERM

That the elaborate war memorial and shrine proposed for Copley square at a cost of $500,000 has but a slim chance of passing the present Legislature was indicated today at a hearing before the committee on military affairs at the State House.

Near the conclusion of the hearing, in which the Copley square site was vigorously opposed by General Channing R. Edwards and Representative Slater Washburn of Worcester, the chairman of the committee, Senator Frank M. Pickett of Milford, stated that it would probably be impossible to get the appropriation this year because of the lateness of the report by the commission favoring the project.

The chief argument for the memorial was made by Francis J. Good of Cambridge, past commander of the Legion and chairman of the special memorial commission. Others in favor were Arthur D. Hill, Ralph C. Henry as associate of the late Guy Lowell, who drew the plans, Herbert M. Richard D. Sears, Julian Codman and Dr. Algernon Coolidge.

Ralph W. Gray, appearing for the executive committee of the Boston Society of Architects, an organization previously in favor of the Basin site, said that Copley square is adequate in size for the type of memorial designed.

Pamphlet Writer Is Found Guilty in Blasphemy Case

Toronto, Ont., March 15 (A.P.)— Ernest V. Sterry was found guilty of blasphemy today by a jury. Sentence was deferred.

The blasphemy with which Sterry was charged appeared in a pamphlet he wrote called the "Christian Enquirer." According to counsel for the Crown it was "a scandalous, impious libel concerning God, the Holy Bible, the Holy Scriptures and the Christian religion."

Sterry insisted his writings were not blasphemy as the God he described was an ancient god and not the Almighty God of Christianity.

SEES ESCORT OF SISTER FATALLY HURT BY AUTO

Lawrence, March 15 (A.P.)—Fate played a queer prank in the death of Miss Callahan, 20, of Methuen, who died from injuries received when struck by the automobile of Charles J. J. Whitaker, 20, of North Andover.

Callahan was walking along a road with Miss Mary Casey of this city when fatally injured, while beside the driver in the death car sat her sister, Miss Kathleen Conley. Whitaker was held in $1,500 pending an inquest.

FAKES AGE TO WED; PAROLED

Found guilty of falsifying his age on a marriage license application, Howard C. Glynn of Dorchester, who recently took Lillian Phinney of Sawyer avenue, Dorchester, as his bride, was placed on probation for six months today in Municipal Court.

Glynn, who is 26 years old, gave his age as 24, according to testimony by Assistant City Registrar Joseph Callahan, who made an investigation on complaint of the bride's mother, Mrs. Mabel Phinney. The ruling of Chief Justice Bolan in favor of the Basin site, said that Copley square is adequate in size for the type of memorial designed.

Coolidge Scurries to Safety as Lumber Pile Goes Up in Air

Washington, March 15 (A.P.)— Workmen taking the roof off the White House forced President Coolidge to scurry for safety today as they continued hoisting lumber over the side while he was inspecting the work.

The President was standing under the big crane when he suddenly discovered a pile of lumber was being lifted directly above him.

Coolidge, in finding Glynn guilty, does not affect the marriage. The bride is 18 years old and her age was given correctly. The couple were married in Milton on March 7 and live in Dix street, Dorchester.

BILL TO RAISE JUDGE'S PAY

The legislative committee on pay for service voted to report a bill increasing the salaries of the Justices of the Supreme, Superior and Land Courts.

Under the terms of the proposed bill the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court would receive $15,500 and his associates $15,000. The Chief Justice of the Superior Court would receive $13,500 and his associates $13,000. The Land Court Justices would receive $13,000.

RADIO DIALOG

by C. WILLIAM RADO

SPRING is making itself heard on the air these nights. Or maybe we are feeling exuberant and so imagine the programs are better. But in either case we are glad radio is with us. Because there will be more disagreeable nights during which we will appreciate our old friends.

Distant conditions, always freakish, can never be predicted and always will have something for the enthusiast. So do not neglect your set as yet.

The night was warm and gave one a listless feeling. The battery was weak and the air muggy. But there was no connection between the weather and the radio signals. Signals from out-of-town were trooping in with little fading or static. They did not act willy-nilly or in a hallucinid fashion. We heard them and heard them well.

* * *

The enormously great scientific interpretation of this discovery can have only one result. Hitherto all the great, as well as the small, radio experts have believed that the weather was to blame for poor radio conditions. But we now know better. But for keen, perspicacious, scientifically-minded observation last night this fundamental discovery would never have been made.

* * *

As last night was descent for distant reception so it was for local reception. Hazy was as polite and cheerful as ever. The Harvesters took us to Egypt for a short trip. The Gypsies were the finest and remaining big broadcast on the air.

* * *

WEAF, WFG, KDKA, WMAK were the only stations we listened to for long as the locals had the air full of good offerings. WJZ, WSB and WGY were also heard, with a few others.

* * *

After an early hour, Jacques Renard entertained from WEEI with his excellent orchestra. The boys had all eaten well and were trying to convince us that they were the best orchestra in Boston. We do not need much convincing; we need to be shown.

The only "B" battery of its kind and the best of them all

EVEREADY Layerbilt "B" Battery No. 486 is built up solidly, layer on layer of current-producing materials. Every available inch inside the battery is occupied by active materials with no waste spaces as occur between the round cells used in all other dry "B" batteries.

All loud-speaker sets require Heavy-Duty "B" batteries because they last twice as long as the smaller Light-Duty batteries, and yet do not cost anything like twice as much. The Eveready Layerbilt has proved over and over to be the longest-lasting and most economical Heavy-Duty "B" battery.

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON SOCIETY

Paintings of Mrs. Leonabel Jacobs to Be Shown to Aid South End Music School

OF TRULY LENTEN ATMOSPHERE IS Society's important rallying point for to-morrow. A three-fold incentive will take the social-artistic set to the Doll and Richard gallery, between the hours of 3 and 5—to sip a cup of tea; to see Mrs. Leonabel Jacobs' paintings; and to help along by their attendance the good work done by the South End Music school with aspiring young musicians. In the world of the painting fraternity Mrs. Jacobs is an interesting figure. Her fame as a painter of world-known personages is enviably sure. It is a comprehensive list and needs no recounting.

THERE'S ANOTHER SLANT TO HER FAME less well known, perhaps, but the more glamorous for that reason. Like many another of her ilk she's roamed the far places of the earth in search of subjects. She has even penetrated to Manchu fastnesses and had for her subject the closely-guarded Princesses of that faraway land. She has also, as I'm told, had the privilege of painting a small ex-Emperor of the Chinese, a privilege rarely accorded the Occidental by the Oriental.

TOMORROW'S PRIVATE VIEW AND TEA HAS a debutante coterie to assist in the rite of the teacup—Miss Emily Davis, Miss Joan Hinxman and Miss Eleanor Garfield de Lima Lord, directed by Mrs. Davenport Brown. Mesdames Eliot Wadsworth and Harold Peabody, together with Miss Grace Nichols, pour Wednesday at the same time and place there is a second private view, also having the Music School as the deserving philanthropy to benefit thereby.

AN APRIL BRIDE-TO-BE ADDED TO THE Spring list, and one that should be radiant to behold in bridal finery, is Miss Silsbi Bacon, the blonde and blueeyed daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis W. Bacon of Brookline. She's now in the throes of trying-on and selecting this and that bit of wedding array, a process absorbingly thrilling for every girl. Miss Bacon came out two or three years ago and belongs to the Junior League.

OBVIOUSLY THE DAYS OF THE DEBUTANTE OF 1926-7 IS GONE by, and officially the charming young thing figures not in the social calendar. She's not quite a back number yet, however for I hear that one or two large and more or less informal (and sure to be jolly) dinner dances are on the tapis. Such an occasion at the Club Marco is to be given for Miss Eleanor Drinkwater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Brinkwater. The young people "adore" this attractive club, with its semblance of al fresco dining and dancing.

A PLEASANT OCCASION OF THE EARLY WEEK WAS Mrs. Harry L. Rollins' tea for Miss Katharine Chapman Warren of New York, given at the Rollins' "Homestead" out in Wellesley. Miss Warren is being entertained by various friends and is spending her Boston stay as house guest of one after another schoolgirl friend. She goes back to Gotham in something like a week or so.

THE BOSTON CONTINGENT SEEKING A BREATH OF SUMMER beneath Bermuda's bright blue skies continues to grow increasingly important. The Louis Frothinghams of Washington and North Easton, and Henry Gould of Nahant are at the Bermudiana. Mr. and Mrs. Clement S. Houghton of Chestnut Hill put up at the Princess. Garden-lover that she is, Mrs. Houghton will find a wealth of beauty in Bermuda's various gardens, those of the elaborate and beautifully kept estate no more than the carefully-tended plots that bloom so brilliantly about humble homes.

IT'S VERY SPIRITED TENNIS THAT GOES ON THIS WEEK AT the covered courts at Longwood. Local feminine stars are meeting visitors from various centers and providing some fine sport for the galleries. Mrs. J. Lewis Brener, Mrs. Roger Griswold, Miss Eleonora Sears, Miss Eleanor Dillon, Miss Virginia Rice and ever so many other favorite society sportswomen are flashing about the courts. Both singles and doubles are on the card, and I believe some national titles are being fought for. But whoever wins, the sport is well worth watching.

U. S. Naval Mission to Oppose Cut at Geneva

By JAMES T. WILLIAMS JR.
(Editor of Universal Service)

Washington, March 15.—If the Administration at Washington heeds the warning of the American naval mission to Geneva, there will be no surrender by the United States of "equality with the strongest" in its condition precedent to any new treaty for the limitation of naval armaments.

It became known today that the American mission, now on its way to Geneva, is unanimously and unconditionally opposed to any modification of the 5-5-3 ratio for cruisers and auxiliary craft.

Whether the mission will be sustained by President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg in this position or whether President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg will prefer to follow the leadership of Representative Theodore E. Burton of Ohio may not be known for some time.

HIT WASHINGTON TREATY.

Negotiations at Geneva will be secret, as have been many of the exchanges between Washington, London and Tokyo concerning the new naval conference.

Meantime, Representative Burton has launched a new attack against the fundamental principle of the Washington treaty by the terms of which the United States surrendered naval supremacy in 1922 and substituted "equality with the strongest" as the treaty standard of American seapower until 1932.

Representative Burton appears to be the spokesman of those interests, European and American, which have formed a coalition against maintaining the underlying principle of the Washington treaty.

BRITISH "REVISE" STAND.

There is nothing inconsistent in the course taken by Mr. Burton. Throughout the presidency of Roosevelt he was the leading opponent in Congress of a strong navy.

He completely contradicts the assurance of Mr. Hughes, who presided over the conference and who is on record as saying that the United States, by signing the Washington treaty, was under obligation to build the navy for which that treaty provides.

Representative Burton, as the leader of the new sapping expedition against the American navy, is apparently in favor of scrapping the principle underlying the Washington treaty. Instead of equality with the strongest, as the American standard of sea-power, he would substitute at the new naval conference "naval requirements influenced by a desire for world peace and a proper balance of expenditures of the various departments and activities of the government."

Meantime, the British seem to have "revised" the assurances given by Lord Balfour at the Washington conference. These assurances were to the effect that the British accepted in general terms the proposition of naval equality for the United States. Recently, however, there has been revealed at London a change in this attitude. Totally unforeseen of the British admiralty are insisting upon British supremacy in cruisers.

WOULD PUT U. S. SECOND.

Now comes Representative Burton of Ohio with a declaration to the same effect. He thus becomes the spokesman of those Britishers across the Atlantic and those Americans on this side of the Atlantic who favors a surrender by Uncle Sam at Geneva of equality with the British and an acceptance in place of the 5-5-3 ratio, of 5-4-3 ratio for America.

This would put the British navy in first place, the American navy second place, and the Japanese navy in third place.

30 DESTROYERS TO TAKE NAVAL RESERVISTS OUT

WOMEN THRONG HALL TO HEAR LONGWORTH

Up out of a crush of women that jammed the Women's Republican Club, overflowed into corridors and staircases and made the calling of police necessary, Speaker Nicholas Longworth of the National house rose today and declared for two-party government.

He declared also that the Republican party is headed over a long trail and will continue to be the dominating party, principally because of the prosperity during its tenure.

And while the Speaker of the House spoke in the jammed clubhouse, women who stood even almost at the foot of the stairs continued their endeavor to squirm through the crowd up into the ballroom, to where the meeting had been moved when the downstairs accommodations were hopelessly inadequate.

Representative Longworth announced those that would split up the American government into one of many factions, all at swords points.

If small groups were allowed to function, as do the fourteen distinct blocs of France, he said, America would have at least 7,000 blocs.

"Let us see that we always have our parity without a division," he added. "If we in this country, followed the lines of France and allowed each group its voice, we would have more than 2,000 blocs in comparison to the fourteen of France."

The House speaker himself was compelled to elbow his way into the clubhouse, so great and dense was the throng. Even though the women attempted to press back, those behind, pressing forward, counteracted the attempt.

Finally it became necessary to ask for a detail of police and the officers succeed in persuading 200 or more of the eager women that any further attempt to get up into the already jammed ballroom would be hopeless.

These women departed regretfully, but most of them remained outside on the Beacon street sidewalk.

HEARS GOODWIN ON BILLS FOR STATE PAY REVISION

In executive session today the Legislative committee on public service heard Registrar Frank A. Goodwin, representing the Commonwealth Service Association, and Chairman Charles P. Howard of the commission on administration and finance, in final arguments on bills for reclassification of employes and the establishment of their salaries.

Following the hearing the committee was polled and voted to support the Griffenhagen schedules, the result of a study by experts. A bill in rough form, it is understood, will be drafted at another executive session to be held on Thursday.

This will be the subject of the debate between U. S. Washburn of the Boston Club. Dr. Butler will take the affirmative side and will speak first.

For the first time in the history of Middlesex Superior Criminal Court, a woman lawyer appeared today as defense counsel in a major criminal case. Her sister appeared also, acting as junior counsel.

They were Theodora M. McDonald, twenty-four, and Catherine McDonald, twenty-three, both of Charlestown and both pretty and Boston University Law School graduates. In their defense of their client, facing a maximum penalty of life imprisonment, they were very business-like.

The defendant was Francis J. Sokolofski of Essex street, Charlestown, charged with robbery while armed in a Somerville store.

While Theodora examined and cross-examined witnesses, sister Catherine made notes and gave suggestions as to questions.

CHINESE FIRE ON U. S. SHIP

Pekin, China, Mar. 15 (A.P.).—The American destroyer Preble was fired on by Chinese near Wuhu, 40 miles on the Yangste River while escorting a Standard Oil launch, with which the Chinese had previously interfered.

The bridge of the Preble was struck twice, but there were no casualties. The Americans replied with machine guns.

The American Minister, John Van A MacMurray, has instructed Frank P. Lockhart, Consul-General at Hankow, to investigate, and if it is proved that the Nationalists (Cantonese) were responsible, lodge a protest with the Cantonese authorities.

Shanghai dispatches last Wednesday named the destroyer Preble as one of the war vessels standing by at Wuhu to protect the foreigners following occupation of that city by the Cantonese forces advancing down the Yangste toward Nanking.

Roosevelt, where a gas, light or power rate was believed to be excessive, action seeking relief was first necessary upon the part of the city or town affected. The bill reported today provides that the Public Utilities Commission may examine such rates at will.

Legislative leaders predict the passage of the bill.

and not attended many of the meetings.

Mr. Garrison said he had never heard anything at any of the meetings that would be prejudicial to the Jewish race, although before joining he had heard the Klan was not favorable to Jewish people.

"What prompted you to join?" asked the Senator.

"Curiosity, as I said before," replied the postal clerk.

"Did the question of the Jewish race have anything to do with your joining?"

"None," was the reply.

Senator Reed then turned his attention to Isaac Greenberg, a retired clothier of Detroit. Mr. Greenberg said he did not believe his loyalty to his race would indemnify him in reaching a fair decision, and religion would not be taken into consideration by him.

"If you regarded a statement about your race as prejudicial and harmful, would you not also regard it as untrue?" asked the Senator. "If it were untrue I would regard it as harmful," parried the prospective juror.

The attorney phrased his question in several different ways in an attempt to obtain a direct answer as to whether a harmful statement would also be regarded as untrue, but Greenberg usually resorted to "I don't know."

Sapiro, Chicago lawyer and for 15 years organizer of co-operative marketing organizations, who is suing Ford in connection with a series of articles appearing in the Dearborn Independent, a Ford publication, in 1924 and 1925, was admitted to the bar here on motion of William Henry Gallagher, his attorney. This would permit Sapiro at any time during the trial to take an active part.

Also found the counsel table sat Senator James A. Reed, chief counsel for the defense; Richard J. Higgins and Raymond Watson of Kansas City.

William Henry Gallagher, Sapiro's counsel, was assisted by Walkter F. Lynch, his Chicago partner.

Judge Raymond asked the veniremen if any of them was acquainted with Ford, Sapiro or any of the attorneys connected with the case.

Mrs. Helen Girard said she knew the Ford family and was unbiased.

"Have any of you, prior to the series of articles that appeared in the Dearborn Independent, and in which libel is charged, read anything concerning Jewish power or life?" asked the judge.

"Or have you read anything since then of a similar nature?"

He received no reply.

QUESTIONS ABOUT JEWS.

The prospective jurors were asked if they had read any booklets published by the Dearborn Independent concerning so-called international Jewry. None said he had.

"Have any of you seen any articles in the Dearborn Independent, or recopied, concerning co-operative marketing or Aaron Sapiro, who brought this suit?" he asked.

One man replied that he had but said that he had not formed any opinion and would be able to judge solely on evidence introduced during the trial.

He asked if any were members of societies that taught Jews were undesirable residents of the country and if any members of their families belonged to such societies, but received no reply.

ON MARKETING.

Continuing his questioning of prospective jurors Judge Raymond asked if they were interested in co-operative marketing, if they knew of the Sapiro plan of marketing and if they read any farm journals. The answers were "no."

Other questions were if any relatives of the veniremen had been defendants or plaintiffs in libel suits, or if any had been the victims of newspaper articles which were considered offensive.

One man replied that he had not been concerned in libel action, but that he had worked as type setter on a newspaper whose editor was made defendant in a libel action.

Isaac Greenberg, who later was questioned by Senator Reed and Louis Caplan, real estate dealer, said they were Jews, in reply to a question Judge Raymond asked if any were of the Jewish race either by blood or marriage.

Both replied that their race would make no difference in in consideration of the case and that they could give fair and impartial consideration of the case.

Greenberg said he was unprejudiced.

NOTABLES NAMED.

Judge Raymond proceeded with asking the veniremen whether they were acquainted with a number of men, including Frank O. Lowden, Robert Bingham, editor of the Louisville Courier Journal; Eugene Meyer, Jr.; Carl Williams, editor of the Farmer-Stockman, and Bernard M. Baruch.

The judge next asked if any were prejudiced against men who had served in the army, navy or with the marines or if they had any antipathy toward farmers' organizations or marketing associations.

Several admitted having lived on farms but not in recent years. None of the veniremen belonged to farm or co-operative organizations or had any prejudice against lawyers, the judge's questions brought out.

All agreed they could give the same fair consideration to claims of persons outside the city of Detroit and the State of Michigan as they could those living therein.

tion is former District Attorney O'Brien. Another is Fire Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman. The former is positively not in the running, according to political friends of the Governor.

Captain George A. Parker, Federal prohibition administrator for New England, had an excellent chance to replace Wilson while the matter was unsettled in Governor Fuller's mind, it is said.

"I believe that Governor Fuller will reappoint Commissioner Wilson," said Attorney Elijah Adlow, who was formerly the Governor's spokesman in the House of Representatives.

Another prominent political figure said:

"It looks now as if Commissioner Wilson will keep the job. The only reason for appointing O'Brien, or some other man, would be if a complete reorganization of the Boston police department were to be undertaken. While I think this will eventually be done, the time is not yet ripe. The time is coming when certain political influences must be eradicated from the department."

BRIDE OF 16 IS SOLD BY HER HUSBAND

A story of white slavery, in which a bride of sixteen was sold into bondage on her wedding day, was revealed in municipal court today. Joseph Massi, 24-year-old husband of the girl, was sentenced to the House of Correction for one year.

At the same time Evelyn Brown of Tremont street was sent to Sherborn on an indeterminate sentence for participating in the girl's slavery.

The bride, Alice Massi, is at the House of the Good Shepherd on Huntington avenue, and she will remain there until a suitable home is found. Court officials literally gasped in amazement at the story the girl unfolded to Judge Michael J. Murray.

The couple were married in Providence on December 29, and the ma

TO STOP NAUSEA IN THE MORNING

Or Goneness in the Stomach at Any Time

Try a little diapepsin. You may be so sick in the morning that the odor of food adds to your misery. And yet one or two diapepsins instantly settle your stomach, the nausea disappears and you actually become hungry.

Diapepsin is composed of powerful digesters. They work on everything you eat, digesting starchy foods, milk, cream, eggs, meat and, also absorb acids and gas. Heartburn, biliousness and dizziness disappear almost instantly.

Nausea may come from many causes but diapepsin works quickly in any case. Expectant mothers get real benefit from diapepsin, not alone in freedom from nausea but more nutrition from better digestion.

Get a 60 cent package of Pape's Diapepsin at any drugstore. You'll never tolerate nausea again.

But Gentlemen MARRY Brunettes

A Message of Cheer from Lorelei Lee Dictated to Anita Loos

This—for the time being, at least, the final word from the naively humorous Lorelei—appears in April Cosmopolitan. But there will be successors to Lorelei and Dorothy, and as fast as they trip from the typewriter of Anita Loos, they will make their bow to the public in the pages of this magazine.

And how well they fit in the company there! For these pages carry the humor and the philosophy of

A Woman Reporter to Whom the CHICAGO GUNMEN Talk Frankly

Patricia Dougherty, of the Chicago Herald-Examiner, takes you behind the scenes in an astonishing situation—a war among bootleggers in which machine guns have been used and 102 lives sacrificed. She has seen men sprawling on the steps of a Cathedral, dying of machine-gun bullets. She has heard certain gang leaders declare new wars and she has delivered pleas for peace from others. She has seen the police of a city of three million people made powerless by the gangs.

And the "men behind" have discussed their business and their battles with her as frankly as your green-grocer would discuss the day's produce with you.

Her account, in April Cosmopolitan, is a comment on Today which every person interested in Today should read.

With the COOLIDGES in the White House by their Former Housekeeper

President Coolidge takes a nap every afternoon: He smokes cigars. He is a light eater. He rarely talks, or smiles. He seldom goes to the theater. He plays no games. He never touches liquor. He has more clothes than any President in the past five administrations has had. Mrs. Coolidge is warm, friendly. She lets nothing interfere with her happiness. These are observations by Elizabeth Jaffray made during the last of her 17 years as housekeeper of The White House. "Altogether," she says, "these two are, to my way of thinking, the strangest couple that have ever occupied the White House."

As a historical document of Today, nothing has equaled these memoirs of Mrs. Jaffray. They are devoid of sensation, but packed with importance for the person interested in the affairs of his nation.

GOLDEN VOYAGE IS LURE IN MOVIE STAR CONTEST

third-class passengers. The same character of rooms—all rooms are outside rooms—the same food, the same intimate, kindly service is enjoyed by everyone.

JUST BY NAMING MOVIE STARS

Win this trip for yourself and your wife, husband, mother, father, son, daughter or other traveling companion, by identifying the movie plays and naming the movie players represented in the Who's Who in the Movies game.

Picture No. 1 will be printed in next Monday's Evening American.

Picture No. 2 will appear on Tuesday, March 22; No. 3 on Wednesday, and so on, one test picture daily, until No. 24 has appeared.

In each picture a part or all of the face of one player will have been painted out.

Participants in the test will be required to name the photoplay from which the scene is taken and name the prominent player whose face is missing.

In addition to these requirements, you will be asked to write a letter of not more than 300 words, giving the name of your favorite photoplay and telling why it is your favorite.

There will be other prizes, in addition to the Cruise of the Golden Caribbean as the guest of the United Fruit Company, but not too many of them. In this competition, the aim has been to concentrate upon a few awards of superior excellence.

You will be leaving New York City on a Saturday in May, and your Spring vacation will begin the moment you step on board the United Fruit Company liner.

Life aboard one of these ships is simply luxurious. You enjoy the same degree of careful service that you do at home, or at your favorite club. The food is equal to that served at any first-class hotel. Decks are wide and spacious, affording opportunity for deck games as well as dancing.

Sea travel is an adventure. You have an opportunity to move around, to meet your fellow voyagers, exchange experiences and form new friendships. Add to the mystery and charm of the sea the moonlit nights and perfumed breezes of the tropics, stir in the romance and history of the "Spanish Main," and consider the luxurious comfort obtainable on a Great White Fleet ship, and there is small wonder that year after year the fame of the Caribbean grows as a tourist resort.

The Evening American's Who's Who in the Movies Competition, should attract the attention and arouse the interest of every New Englander who knows the pictures and the people of Movie Land.

That, today, of course, means substantially everyone.

No problem amongst the 24 will be found tantalizingly difficult. Even the very first of the awards, the United Fruit Company tour from New York to Cuba, Jamaica, Honduras, Guatemala, British Honduras and back to New York again, may be won by the very youngest or the most elderly of our readers.

The movie plays which will be featured will be films that everybody has had an opportunity to become acquainted with, in one way or another. The players will be artists whose names are virtually household words throughout America. There will be no ringers, no attempt to mislead or deceive, no traps for the unwary, no effort to do anything else than entertain.

Some readers are going to stay out of this competition simply because a letter is asked for. To miss your chance at one of these splendid awards for that reason will be ill-advised.

It is not expected that any participant in the Test will turn into a "literary gem" of 300 words. Everything else being equal—that is to say, with reference to your skill in identifying plays and players—what the judges will be looking for is originality in explaining why your favorite movie play is your favorite.

It will be a short competition and, we hope and believe, a snappy one. Be ready for it! Come on in, and bring as many friends as you like!

Test Picture No. 1, then, in the Who's Who in the Movies competition, on Monday next, March 21, in the Boston Evening American.

Asks Annulment

NORMA EHRENZELLER
Jamaica Plain woman accuses unfrocked minister in jail with having two wives when she became his bride.

PAWTUCKET GIRL, 9, IS WHIPPED BLACK AND BLUE

Pawtucket, March 15 (A.P.)—Ida Ford, 9, a foster-daughter of William Ford, 31, is at the Memorial Hospital suffering from severe wounds inflicted by a whip. Ford, arraigned in the Tenth District Court today on a charge of cruelty to a child, pleaded not guilty and was held for trial, March 23 under $500. The child's body is black and blue, both feet are boiled, and she may be suffering from internal injuries, it was testified.

FATHER ACCUSED BY GIRL HELD IN $5,000

Joseph Oliver of Charlestown, whose 17-year-old daughter alleges he buried in the cellar of their home a baby born to her, was held in $5,000 bail for the Grand Jury today in Charlestown district court.

His wife, the mother of the girl, Julia Oliver, is at Haymarket Relief Hospital after an unsuccessful attempt to take her own life. She attempted suicide after the police made an unsuccessful search of the cellar of the Walker street house.

EX-MINISTER, IN JAIL, SUED BY HUB WIFE

Robert MacLaren Brown Stuart, unfrocked Presbyterian minister of many loves, who is serving a sentence in Michigan on a forgery charge, was today named in an annulment suit filed in the Suffolk probate court by Norma L. Ehrenzeller of Jamaica Plain.

The Boston woman claims when she was married to the former clergyman in 1921 he had two wives from whom he had not been divorced.

The filing of the annulment proceedings recalls one of the most fantastic tales of a Twentieth Century Don Juan on record in Boston courts.

The former minister, youthful, goodlooking and refined is credited by police with at least seven shattered matrimonial adventures, although the Jamaica Plain woman, in her suit accuses him of only two previous romances.

In the suit filed today it is claimed the former minister, in 1921, represented himself as a single man when he was already married to Maria Barbara James of Wilmington, Del., and Maude Ethel Osbaldeston of New York.

According to police records, Stuart was unfrocked as a clergyman while filling a pastorate on the Pacific Coast. The former minister, using many aliases, traveled about the country for several years, contracting, in that time, several marriages.

In 1921 he came to Boston, posing as an author under the name of Donald Allister McGregor. He met Miss Ehrenzeller and within a short time they were engaged, later being married.

At the time he came here the former minister is said to have been accompanied by a previous wife, Mrs. Ethel M. Turner Osbaldeston of Newark, N. J. This woman, it is said, posed as a sister of the former clergyman, and in this role urged Stuart's marriage to Miss Ehrenzeller. Later the bride accused Stuart of having swindled herself and her mother of bonds valued at $1,000.

DON'T WANT Y. W. C. A. TO BE TOO RESPECTABLE

Buffalo, N. Y., March 15 (A.P.).—A warning against "too much respectability" in conducting the affairs of the Young Women's Christian Association and in considering applications for membership was voiced at the opening session today of a conference being held by association representatives from ten of the largest cities. Cities represented included New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Minneapolis, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Brooklyn and Buffalo.

RESCUE BOY IN SOUTH END BLAZE

Five families were driven to the street and a fourteen-old-boy was snatched from death by two policemen when fire swept the lower floor of the three-story brick dwelling at No. 134 Union Park street, South End, today.

The fire started in a restaurant operated by James Tompkins on the first floor when a pan of grease overturned on a hot stove.

Clouds of smoke swept through the upper floors, driving the occupants to the street.

After all were believed safely out of the building Michael Ubak, whose family occupies a third-floor apartment, discovered that his fourteen-year-old son, Michael, Jr., had been left behind. The smoke was almost impenetrable when Patrolmen Frederick Hay and John Kelley of Station 5 entered the building. With difficulty they made their way to the third floor, where they found the boy groping helplessly through the hall.

BOYISH BOB IS DOOMED; MILADY MUST HIDE EARS

New York, March 15 (A.P.)—Ears of the lady of fashion in 1927 again will retreat into obscurity with the passing of the boyish bob.

So, at least, has decreed the American Master Hairdressers' Association in convention assembled.

Further hints to beauty a la 1927 made were given by Miss Alice F. Ryan, vice-president of the American Beauty Schools' Association.

The bob will be cut longer, she said. The newest is the "arf and arf," in which the hair is drawn back severely on one side of the head, so as to expose one ear, and on the other side is arranged so that the ear is covered.

For evening dress women will wear long hair made of hair pieces, the construction of which is said to have reached such a stage of development that they cannot be detected from real hair.

Rouge will be deep orange hue, eyebrows will not be so thin and finger nails will be polished with a pearl finish.

Charles Nessler, president of the hairdressers' association, gave some statistics on beauty upkeep. There are 30,000 hairdressing and beauty parlors in the United States, he said, and last year $600,000,000 women spent a total of $330,000,000 for beauty culture.

ANNIVERSARY FROLIC AT THE STATE

By LEO GAFFNEY.

BESIDES a [illegible] the various staged features attending the celebration of Fifth Anniversary Week at Loews State there is also a motion picture. In it you are taken on "A Little Journey" with Claire Windsor, William Haines and Harry Carey as the [illegible] companions.

But the funny part of it is that the [illegible] the country to San Francisco, and Harry Carey, whom you have never seen without a [illegible] kerchief and two guns, is not the blunt fellow you thought, but manages quite well with [illegible] made clothes and a starched collar. Honest!

Better than that, Mr. Carey enters the lists of screen Great Lovers and, moreover, is getting away with it in grand style when who should come along but a [illegible] young fellow—oh, so like a salesman we know—and you could tell by the way he wore his Kollegiate Klothes that the [illegible] man never had a chance.

EASY TRIANGLE

And nothing would do [illegible] blonde young lady [illegible] Windsor) but to make [illegible] worse by [illegible] much of it on the observation platform and other cozy corners getting altogether too well acquainted with this new found boy friend.

Well, it runs along like that until Mr. Carey sees [illegible] are, so, yielding to a [illegible] dashery, he drops off at a convenient way station and [illegible] to drown his sorrow [illegible] coffee. So the two young [illegible] sponsibles are left for the final "clinch"; thereby ending up the most painless "treatment" of the "triangle" seen in [illegible] ages. And with neither a head, vow, nor wife broken!

"A Little Journey" is a [illegible] movie.

STAGE FEATURES

For the rest of the State's birthday party there is a [illegible] of unusual excellence. LONDON DRAMA PRESENTED AT ST. JAMES

One of those famous London fogs, a member of Parliament with a taste for drugs and a beautiful wife, and a young writer who is agreeable to a change of identity, are the components of a stirring drama, "The Masquerader," presented by the St. James Players at the St. James Theatre.

Walter Gilbert, who has a double character in the title role, was superb. "The Masquerader" was created by Guy Bates Post some seasons ago and played by him more [illegible]

Florence Shirley, portraying the wife of John Chilcote, M. P., adds another triumph to the long list of her successes. Miss Shirley seems to be especially at home in the parts that call for emotional action and reaction.

"The Masquerader" is a dramatization of Katherine Cecil Thurston's novel, prepared for the stage by John Hunter Booth. It concerns the activities of one John Loder, a struggling author, and the aforementioned Chilcote, M. P.

These two gentlemen meet in the fog, trade identities, and then each goes about the other's respective duties.

BUCKLIN FINDS CUBA ISLE OF OPPORTUNITY

By FRED TOVE

In the early days of America the old sugar bowl of the pantry shelf was a pretty good place to lay the foundations of a family fortune.

Today, the sugar bowl of the world, the island of Cuba, is a pretty good place to [illegible] dollar upon a dollar and [illegible] up a competence, thinks Walter S. Bucklin, president of the National Shawmut Bank.

The Boston banker, just returned from a business trip to the island, says that the youth of America, particularly the youth of New England, can find few places on the face of the earth more promising for carving out a career [illegible] American capital can find few fields more fertile in return on invested funds.

NEW ENGLAND LEADS.

New England, more than any other section of the United States, is represented in the industries of Cuba, both in capital invested and in foreign personnel. It was for the purpose of examining the soundness of the Cuban financial structure that President Bucklin made his trip to Cuba in company with Frank C. Nichols, vice-president of the National Shawmut Bank. He returned to Boston filled with enthusiasm.

"A difference of three-eighths of a pound in the price of raw sugar would mean the difference between just getting by and prosperity for the whole island," he said.

It was in Egypt, where he lived in safety as the physician of the tolerant native ruler, that Maimonides wrote some of his most important works, including the "Guide to the Perplexed" and translated Greek philosophers into Hebrew. FOR HIS tampering with the Hebrew language, Maimonides was excommunicated by the high synagogue in Spain. But that didn't worry him. The great scholar whom millions of little boys know was [illegible] was a model [illegible]

CONTRIBUTIONS TO HORAN FUND POUR IN

By STED CHANDLER.

The response to the benefit fund being collected for Dan Horan, the Massachusetts State golf handicapper, now ill at the Carney Hospital, has been spontaneous and the fund is now well on its way.

According to A. Linde Fowler, the chairman of the committee, the figure reached up to a late hour yesterday was well over $2 0 and the contributions were coming in with increasing rapidity.

Many people have been unaware of Horan's breakdown, and it is certain that as soon as it becomes generally known, the donations will far exceed even the most sanguine expectations of those who started the fund.

This is indicated not only by the various gifts which have already come into Linde Fowler's hands, but by the written tributes which have invariably accompanied them.

There is no doubt but that Dan Horan stands alone in the hearts of New England golfers. His unstinted service and his unceasing good humor have won for him an enviable popularity.

Mr. Fowler has received from scores of prominent golfers and club members throughout New England expressing both sorrow for Horan's failing health and appreciation for what he has done for golf.

Rookies Now and Then Loved Game in Old Days Many Distractions Today | Graham an Example Should Be Great Edwards Rare Bird

McGraw Says Players Don't Keep Mind on Game

SARASOTA, Fla., March 15.—The trouble with young ball players today, according to John McGraw, who should know, is that they can't keep their minds on business twenty-four hours per day. The kids in the days when John was learning the game used to play it, sleep it and eat it. The youngsters hung around the veterans, trying to pick up crumbs of advice.

They found out their own weaknesses and worked to correct them. They allowed no distractions to take them off the line. Their baseball was serious business, and if they had the stuff they came through quickly. It did not take endless years in the minors to develop the old-timer; he was up in the big show while still filled with the strength and dreams of youth.

Nick Flatley

Nowadays the youngsters keep popping up from the minors and dropping back more or less like the well-known Mister Finnagan. Finally they collect enough knowledge to stick, but the years have crept up and their careers are not too long.

Movies, automobiles, golf, big salary and countless other things have worked the change. You do not see the kids hanging around the hotel lobbies nights, discussing plays and hits and decisions. They think they haven't time.

It would be easy for a bright boy to get all the advice and information that he wanted in these times. Coaches and veteran players are always too glad to hand along the results of their experience. But they find scant audiences.

In the olden times the rookies had to learn their own stuff. They had to fight through for the veterans would not hand out any wisdom.

Graham Has Ability, But Can't Make Grade

THE case of Kyle Graham, who has just been released to the Seattle Club of the Pacific Coast League, is one in point. Kyle came up to the Braves four years ago with more than an ordinary big league pitcher's crude ability. He had speed to burn and a good curve ball. He looked like a new marvel.

For three years running, Graham came back exactly the same kind of a pitcher he was his first Spring. Last year he was let out to Providence, where it was hoped he might have to work so much that the knowledge would be assimilated through practice.

Didn't mean a thing, however, and now the young man, who has had enough experience to be a big league star, is back in the minors. He may return, but even if he does, he can never win back the wasted years.

FOSTER EDWARDS of Dartmouth, on the other hand, is so eager to discover what big league pitching means that he has to be held back a bit. He tries to learn too rapidly. He's a rare bird in a camp, a young man with a burning ambition to succeed. He's honest in admitting that if he can't make good in the big show quickly, he'll give up the game, but he will not fail for lack of trying.

Two Novice Classes at St. Joe's Tourney

Another amateur boxing tournament is on the card at Commercial Hall, Bowdoin square, next Saturday night under the direction of the St. Joseph's T. A. S., and following last Saturday's show of 43 bouts, it is expected that the followers of the purse will witness another classy tournament.

Once again the novice boxers in the 135-pound and 147-pound classes will be seen in action. In addition there will be bouts in five open classes, including 112, 118, 126, 160 and heavyweight.

Entries for the tournament may be made with William H. Cuddy, Room 10, 258 Washington street, where reservations also may be made.

Inside Golf

By CHESTER HORTON

To accomplish a cut-shot approach, the cut-shot meaning a ball that accumulates back spin as it flies, you take the ordinary open stance, with the ball off the left instep or perhaps off the left heel. Ordinarily you sweep the clubhead back from the ball, in the back swing so that it keeps about even with a straight line running back from the ball, then goes upward. For a cut-shot let the clubhead go slightly outside of a straight line back from the ball, then when you return the

GIVE the sign to the man behind the counter and he will hand you a tin of the grandest tobacco that ever snuggled in the bowl of a pipe. Throw back the lid and revel in that tantalizing aroma of real tobacco. Load up and light up. There you have it!

That is Prince Albert, Gentlemen—smoked by more men than any other pipe-brand. This overwhelming preference didn't "just happen." It exists for the single reason that P. A. brings more deep-down, solid satisfaction out of a pipe than any diet you could put it on.

The very first pull will tell you that Prince Albert is unlike any other tobacco. Notice how cool it smokes, no matter how wide you open the throttle. Notice, too, that it doesn't bite the tongue or parch the throat, no matter how often you fill-up and pull-in.

You may think you are all set on a smoke-program. Fair enough. But don't let that interfere with your getting a first-hand knowledge of what P. A. offers in real pipe-pleasure. Where there's so much P. A. smoke, there must be the fire of truth. Try it and see!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

There came a soft knock at the door and Arthur Byrne entered.

Brown Picked Up Some Papers From His Desk

Curwen Brown walked from the room, and went down the steps and along the corridors, whistling like a schoolboy. At the door of his own office he stopped. His telephone bell was ringing.

He crossed to his desk and picked up the receiver.

"Hello?" he said. "Mrs. Aldhouse? Oh, yes." He listened a moment. "Mary has been released, you say, and seems strange in her manner?" His expression became grave. "By God! If Carrifax has practised any devilment on that girl . . . All right, I'll come round at once."

Curwen Brown carefully picked up some papers from his desk, placed them in a drawer and double-locked it, then he snatched up a hat and left the room. In a corridor he met Arthur Byrne.

"Byrne," he said, "Miss Vickers has returned to Mrs. Aldhouse's and they fancy she is ill. I'm going straight there to see her. If anyone wants me—unless it's very urgent postpone the engagement till this afternoon."

CANNOT MAKE SOMETHING OUT OF NOTHING

You can't make something out of nothing.

All this talk about "So and So" not being anything until another somebody came along and "made him" is foolish.

If there had been no foundation of basic good, no matter how much effort was put forth the result would be indifferent.

There must be a supply of material suitable to build a fire.

There must be [illegible] to [illegible] mental suggestions.

There must be originality enough to keep from copying the work of another.

But you say that you knew that boy or girl years ago and there was no indication then of the talent or genius which later years developed.

You conclude that environment or circumstance must have changed to put that very ordinary person into a position of fame or renown.

It is easier to you to infer that outside influence counted rather than to give the person credit for making the most of his opportunity.

[illegible] feelings, "and in time you'll come to love me—I'm sure of it. A love like mine can't help but create love."

"Ah, Dick," [illegible] had heard the widow answer, "this one has come too suddenly. I should be afraid it would not last and I couldn't bear that, [illegible] great [illegible] wait and think until you are sure."

"But I'm sure now, Paula," the man had continued. "Until I met you I never considered women seriously. I thought they were merely creatures to be petted and protected and humored. You've brought out in me sober thinking and nobler impulses, that I ever dreamed possible."

"It is wonderful to be loved like that," Paula Knoblock had assured him, "but I [illegible] months have passed [illegible]

And Rita [illegible] if ever a girl had any right to look upon a man as a lover she had that right to look so upon Dick.

Now the beautiful association was ended and she lay there under the blinking stars, sobbing her heart out because men are such base deceivers and widows such a menace to the happiness of young maidens.

A few days later, having decided that he always had looked upon Rita Gillian as a jolly little sister Dick proceeded to treat her as such. When he saw her walking home from the store he ran up behind her and, lifting her unceremoniously by the shoulders, swung her around and around and finally set her upon her feet again.

"Dick Webster! How dare you!" she stormed. "Never try anything like that again! I hope you understand?"

Dick passed on, in silent wonder and with some resentment. He was one of those selfish individuals who like to keep themselves [illegible] to all sweethearts, with [illegible] in the least greedy, [illegible] left and never refused [illegible] fashion before.

To [illegible] he took a turn out to the old Manturn place and found the widow, under the shade of a most unbecoming old garden hat. Her beautiful hands swathed in unsightly working gloves, was helping the gardener set out some shrubs. Paula was deeply interested in seeing that this planting was done just right and seemed to have no time to speak of love or their prospective relationship.

So, after a few moments of silent communion and feeling decidedly in the way, Dick took himself off, unable in his mind to fathom women and their numerous moods.

A week or two went by. It was on a Saturday afternoon, to be exact, that Dick met Rita dancing along the river road on her way to a picnic. He asked if he might join her and being assured that it wasn't her picnic, he helped her gather wild flowers to adorn the feast and for an hour forgot his serious ideals of womanhood, laughing and capering about like the boy that he was.

"It's good to be young and gay," he thought to himself. "Time enough to settle down when those three months are ended."

On the way back as he and Rita were chasing butterflies with a net, they met Paula, and for just a moment he thought she looked a little [illegible]

"What do you two babes in the woods think you are doing?" she [illegible] "No" in answer to their invitation to join them, "I've more serious matters to attend to. I've just been elected president of the Woman's Council and I must get at my opening address. I won't be able to see you this evening, Dick, but you may run in tomorrow about 5, if you like."

That evening Dick was left very much to his own devices. After being shelved completely by the woman he hoped to make his wife, he tried to arrange a date with the girl who had been his playmate since their pinafore days. But Rita was going to a dance with a young man from another town. Dick was conscious of a very positive opinion that it didn't show the proper loyalty for girls of one town to run about with men from another.

Alone in his room, the soft Spring breeze wafting the odor of violets to him through the open window, there was plenty of time for reflection. Somehow he could not rid himself of a vision of Rita Gillian dancing along beside him in that butterfly chase.

Then he thought of Paula, his ideal woman, and wondered, once they were married, if she ever would have any time for play. He was going to be very proud of his clever wife—oh, yes, indeed. But he did somehow think she might be a little less serious at times. A well rounded life must embrace some playtime.

A little later on Rita left town for a week to visit a relative and Dick truly missed her. She was so cheerful, companionable, so refreshing. Mrs. Knoblock was so in earnest most of the time, so practical, so assured of herself in all that she said and did, that he missed the sense of protection he always had when he was with Rita. Gradually he discovered that he was just a little bored.

When Rita returned he was so genuinely glad to see her that it was quite a shock to him when he awakened to the fact that his three months' probation would be ended in exactly another twenty-four hours. He knew that he ought to be in raptures over the prospect, but strangely enough, he wasn't.

There came continuously into his mental vision a comparison of two pictures: the one, a sunny, wind-blown girl, dancing along a path chasing butterflies, the other a tall, slender, dignified, very beautiful woman, with two unmistakable crows feet about either eye. He had discovered them only the day before!

As Dick Webster was the soul of honor, he felt that there was but one thing for him to do, so he went to Paula when the time was up and asked her the same question he had asked her three months before.

It was just at twilight. The last ruddy rays of the setting sun fell upon Paula's head and revealed a number of white hairs Dick never had seen before. Her beauty seemed to be somewhat faded this evening and the tired look about her eyes was decidedly more obvious.

Somehow, when she told him that the tentative engagement was over and that from now on they could be friends, he knew that she was right. He did not wait to see the look of renunciation in her fine eyes nor to note the tremble in her voice as she said goodbye. Neither did he linger on his way to Rita Gillian. Rita was waiting, as the woman so often waits, only she did not know she was being magnanimous. She only knew that she wanted Dick—her boy Dick.

"I—I was outside and heard, the night she put you on probation, Dick," Rita confessed from the safe shelter of her lover's arms.

"She wasn't as wise as she thought," Dick answered pressing the golden head tenderly against his shoulder. "It didn't take me near all of the three months to find out who I really wanted but having let myself in—well, I had to be regular—you see!"

FOR Acid Stomach
PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Try a 25c Bottle

Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drugstore. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

THE MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By HELEN ROWLAND

It is hard for a bachelor to remember, these days, who was the first girl that taught him how to kiss.

* * *

Men are always taking the joy out of life for women! First they discovered that there were germs in money, then in kisses, and now in cosmetics—the only three things in which a woman is vitally interested!

* * *

In love, when repentance comes in at the door, it is a pretty sure sign that infatuation has already flown out through the window.

* * *

A man never has any idea of how much wear there is in a good overcoat or a pair of shoes until he has been married for a year or so.

* * *

No wonder so many of these cynical modern youngsters are committing suicide! With no God to look up to, no love to look forward to, and no childhood to look back on!

Puts An End to Bunion Pains

No Need to Suffer Another Day Those Agonizing Torturing Pains

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflamed, swollen toe joints and get them down to normal and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning.

Ask any first-class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time and furthermore if this wonderful discovery does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

It is sometimes as hard to distinguish between a broken heart and injured vanity as it is to distinguish between a toothache and neuralgia, so closely do they resemble each other.

After all, a stray bachelor has his uses. There is always some single woman who regards him as a hope—and some married woman who finds him a consolation.

* * *

Strange, how soon after marriage a man loses the habit of running after a taxicab—and becomes expert at dodging them.

Don't say that the modern man has no heart! He has so MUCH heart that he thinks it a pity to waste it all on one woman.

A BROOKLYN man is making preparations to run from New York to San Francisco. His shoes will be locked on so that skeptics can't claim that he used somebody else's feet.

HE'S planning to take a chiropodist along with him as official time keeper.

UNDER favorable conditions he can make thirty miles to the bunion.

INSTEAD of carrying a speedometer he'll wait until he gets to the Pacific Coast and then count the corn plasters.

WHERE the roads are bad he'll use only one foot at a time.

OF course, going up hill requires two feet.

IF the weather is good, he hopes to make the Rocky Mountains in high.

THE last time he ran to California he went in the ditch twice and they had to dig him out with a shoehorn.

THE only other tool he's allowed to carry is a button-hook.

THE middle-western roads, however, are so muddy that the judges are going to let him wear high heels in North Dakota and Montana.

IT'S very dangerous going down the mountain passes at this time of the year and he's planning to spread fly-paper on the Continental Divide.

IT'S the same as having four wheel brakes.

UNLESS you're a contortionist it's pretty hard to throw your ankles into reverse.

THIS fellow tried it once and burned out three toes.

HE pulled into Seattle and his feet were only hitting on seven.

WHEN he got to Portland, Oregon, he was using his thumbs for spares.

HIS feet were swollen to twice their natural size, but he didn't care, he didn't have to take such big steps.

CROSS-COUNTRY running is a great sport, but not when you have to use your own feet.

Keep Well Dressed

Clothes DO Make a Difference

DISTINGUISHED MEN, IMPRESSIVE CLOTHES.

Above you see in costumes that they wore three historical characters of importance. On the left, James the Second, in wig and armor; in the middle, the fighting Admiral Nelson; on the right, fat, fierce and powerful, Henry the Eighth.

You see that there is importance and dignity here in these clothes, even in a comic picture.

HERE ARE THE SAME THREE IN MODERN CLOTHES. WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THEM NOW?

In studying these three gentlemen, dressed for effect at the top, and dressed sloppily and carelessly below, young men of today can find for themselves an important lesson, which is KEEP YOURSELF WELL DRESSED. hold yourself well.

If Henry the Eighth called on you in the clothes he wears in the upper picture, you would bow low and say, "Come right in." Your bow would not be so deep for the fat gentleman in the picture. So with Nelson and James the Second.

Dress well, show that you respect YOURSELF, and others with whom you deal will respect you.

Timidity Not a Disease

It Cannot Be Rightly Listed as Incurable, the Courts Have Decided

There is grand news for the shy modern flappers, the timorous publicity-seekers, the bashful movie stars and the modest and retiring bootleggers. Timidity is not an incurable disease and can be overcome. The patient may cure himself by a sort of Coue treatment. The courts have definitely decided that timidity cannot rightly be listed as incurable.

Now, then, when the bashful flapper feels a spell of timidity coming on she needn't flock by herself, because the ailment isn't contagious and there isn't any danger of it becoming epidemic. We'll say there isn't.

And once she overcomes this awful timidity she can ask her sheik to take her for a buggy ride or to the theatre or to the Ritz for dinner without quiver of the voice. There is hope, too, for the bashful press agents, the shy and retiring sugar daddies, prize fighters, the Los Angeles evangelists and the night club proprietors. Science is doing its best to relieve them of their timidity and success is in sight.

The new course of treatment is to surround the patient with a lot of signs and make the patient read them over and over. They are: "I dominate." "I am a new person." "My self-assurance increases." "I have confidence."

What a blessing it will be when all the timid people in our country, including those we have named, and a few million others, will have gained self-confidence. Maybe that was why Babe Ruth felt able to walk right up to Jake Ruppert and ask for a decent salary.

Bootmaker's Daughter

The Young Stenographer Will Retain Her Job, Even Though Husband Will Inherit Millions

English society is rocked to its foundation. Oh, my word! No end of a sensation!

The Hon. Ivor Montagu, son of Lord Swaythling, multimillionaire banker and head of the firm of Samuel Montagu & Co., was married secretly the other day to Ellen Hellstern, the daughter of a lower middle-claws bootmaker. The young lady has been serving as a stenographer and will retain her job, which is always wise in cases like this.

The groom's aristocratic family knew nothing of the romance and nothing of the marriage until afterward, but it is thought, on the advice of the best physicians, that they will pull through and survive the shock, although, of course, they will never be the same again.

Marrying among the tradespeople has been one of the offenses charged against scapegrace sons for some time in England, but, somehow or other, most of these marriages turn out rather well. It does no harm to infuse a little fresh blood into the nobility once in a while.

If he had lived in America the Hon. Ivor Montagu might have shocked his aristocratic relatives still more and served his own financial interests much better by marrying, instead of a bootmaker's daughter, a bootlegger's daughter.

And nobody here, not even our nobility, would have thought anything of it either.

FOOTBALL BRINGS OUT THE BEST

By DR. FRANK CRANE

MANY say that the country has gone "football crazy." They point out the fact that Rome's downfall was preceded by the gift to the people of games and bread.

The parallel between the bloody amusements of ancient times, however, and the football of today is not very close.

Football is a clean sport and the more energy people put out in sport of this strenuous kind the less energy they will be disposed to spend in war.

Football calls for the last ounce of physical strength, together with intellectual alertness.

Recently there was an attendance of 79,500 at the game between Stanford and Southern California. Fifty-five thousand saw Harvard play, 70,000 watched Ohio State and about 75,000 seats were sold for the U. S. C.-Notre Dame game in Los Angeles. Many applicants were rejected for lack of space.

The attendance of large groups at football games is a good omen and those who gather from this that the country is going to the dogs are mistaken.

One difference noted between other countries on the one hand and England and the United States on the other is that England's people play. Sport is an institution and to be a good sport is a synonym of having a good disposition.

The children of France and Italy and Germany need to be taught more how to play, for play is the natural outlet of youthful exuberance and the more a nation plays intelligently the better off it is.

Play of children abroad seems to take a more destructive tendency. A movement has made considerable headway in the United States to have teachers upon the playgrounds and to instruct the children in healthy sports as well as the three R's. Altogether play is a good thing and should be encouraged.

The more the principles of fair play are introduced into business the better off for business, and the more business becomes a sport the more it will attract followers.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

OH, you who thirst for beauty's self, sigh not for distant lands, nor mourn to miss the lovelliness that walks down tropic strands. Grieve not that you shall never greet with glad, enraptured gaze the pearl-pure domes of Taj Mahal, the Louvre's lofty ways. Forget the vaunted majesty of mountain crag and peak for, see, the moon in rising brings all beauty you might seek! She casts her silver veil abroad, transforming common things until a fairer world gleams forth beneath her shining wings. The moon, who lends her glamour to far Persia and Cathay, has brought her beams of silver now to spread along your way. Oh, you who thirst for beauty's self, sigh not for distant lands; the moon in rising pours her wealth of splendor in your hands!

BOSTON DAY BY DAY

"CURE."

EVER hear of using a weasel to cure a child of whooping cough? Seems strange, doesn't it? MISS GERTRUDE ENGLISH of BRIGHTON, a nurse, told a gathering of friends of such an alleged "cure." The general idea of the "cure" was to have a weasel drink some milk from a saucer and then give the remainder to the child. In this particular case the infant recovered, despite the fact that the weasel refused to touch the milk.

UP AND DOWN.

Inspector James Dennessy of the Boston police Homicide squad tells this one about one of the old-time police officers, formerly stationed near the North Station. A nervous woman stepped up to the policeman and asked: "Where can I get an Elevated train?" "Right up those stairs, lady," was the reply. "Oh, dear, can't I get one without climbing a flight of stairs?" "Yes, lady," came the quick reply. "Just walk down to Haymarket square and go downstairs."

Introduced to the YD CLUB by their beloved Yankee Division commander himself, JAMES T. WILLIAMS, JR., now editor of Universal Service, was elected to honorary membership. GENERAL EDWARDS recommended MR. WILLIAMS as a leading journalist, but stressed his right to the honor as one of the service men's greatest allies. The occasion was a lecture that MR. WILLIAMS gave the club.

DOG'S LIFE.

"Most dogs and cats have inferior sight and rely chiefly on their sense of smell," says HERMAN W. NELSON, a heating and ventilating expert. This probably accounts for the deaths by automobiles of so many dogs of good breeding. Hundreds of well-bred dogs are run over in Greater Boston annually, undoubtedly because of imperfect vision.

ANOTHER PROFILE.

A Wolfeboro, N. H., man says the famous "Old Man of the Mountain" and the well-known "Indian Head" are not the only profiles of main faces to be found in the GRANITE STATE. He states that there is a third, as clear cut as the best known "Old Man" to be found on the Pine Hill Cemetery Road in WOLFEBORO, and that scores of BOSTON tourists photograph it every Summer.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

BLANCHE BATES'S thirteen-year-old daughter asked her mother for a vanity case so she could "make up like the other girls."

Whereupon her famous mama promptly declared war on lip sticks, mascara and rouge for high school girls.

Doubtless other mamas have wrung their hands and wept to the neighbors over the same subject—but Blanche Bates didn't waste her energy in any such futile tactics. Straightway she marched to the high school entrance and proceeded to check up on daughter's environment.

"I saw," she says, "a group of pupils pour out of the building. Of the three dozen or more girls that came directly under my eyes, all of them around the ages of thirteen or fourteen, not one had a clean, wholesome looking face. These children—for that is what they were — had their lips daubed with carmine of every hue, and their cheeks touched up with rouge until they had the look of clowns. What that school needs is an epitome of face washing and a good sparkling for every little high school girl who dares to spoil her natural beauty."

Having gotten a very indignant eyeful, Blanche Bates then wrote a vehement protest to the principal of the school. She reminded him of the fact that during school hours the child is under the jurisdiction of the educators and asked if the Board of Education had no authority to take action in this matter.

Why Not Wash?

"If a child had dirty ears or neck undoubtedly the teacher would send the youngster out of the room with orders to wash. Why cannot the same thing be done in this matter of lip-stick, rouge and powder?"

It's a good letter and may start some much needed action. Make-up isn't merely a menace to youthful complexions—it's a subtle undermining of youthful character. A touch of powder or rouge may be simply a matter of grooming for, a nature woman. But it's something quite different for the adolescent daughter with her mind filled with movie drama and vamp plots. Then it becomes not make-up but a boudoir mask which admits hot blooded youth to an erotic, unhealthy world of dreams and desires.

It's all very well to dream of love, and nothing on earth will ever rid young girls of that habit—praises be. But the little girl with tumbled, sun-sweet hair and skin that smells of clean, white soap, dreams quite a different dream of love than the damsel with the purpled eyelids, lips stiff with carmine and bleached hair curled in a myriad of frizzes. Smeared skins breed smeared minds.

Up to the Parents

A good letter and I'm all for you, Blanche Bates. But I disagree on one point. "There is no question in my mind that the mothers of these children were and are entirely ignorant of this greasing and smearing. It is something that is done after the children leave their homes—something that is rubbed off before they return to their homes"——

And you thereupon pass the responsibility to the Board of Education. I'm going to take sides with the long suffering educators on that point, my friend. As one who deals in mamas, let me reply that mama knows all about it, in 999 cases out of 1,000. Sometimes she doesn't like it—sometimes she's indifferent — very often she is actively in agreement. The great majority of these besmeared young ladies make up out of mother's own vanity case. And their locks are often bennaed and bleached by their own mother's hands.

Bad mothers? Not a bit of it! As brave and kind and honest as any living mothers as ever the nation has seen. Their hearts are in the right place, but their tastes——

Yes, Blanche, their taste certainly needs a course of sprouts. And I'm glad you have started it.

On Raising a Tide

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest

"If the moon has so slight gravitative power that she could not retain her own atmosphere, how can she create tides in the oceans of the earth at a distance of 238,840 miles?

M. L.

THERE is an essential difference between retaining an atmosphere and raising a tide.

If it could overcome initial velocities of two or three miles per second, such as the molecules of nitrogen, oxygen, water vapor and so on possess, then it could not keep an atmosphere composed of those gases. And we know that it did not possess the requisite gravitational force because it is easy from a knowledge of the moon's diameter and mass to calculate just what that force must be on the lunar surface.

Such calculation shows that a velocity of more than one and a half miles per second would overcome the moon's attraction. Now the molecules even of carbon dioxide have a maximum velocity of 1.6 miles, so that even that gas, though it might escape more slowly than the others, could not linger forever on the surface of the moon.

The earth, on the other hand, has a gravitative energy enabling it to retain the molecules of gases having a speed of nearly seven miles per second. So the earth has retained in its atmosphere oxygen, although as very vapor, but not hydrogen, which does not exist in the free state around the earth.

But the case of the tide-raising power of the moon is quite different. The molecules of water are not capable of flying away like those of a gas.

The water of the oceans opposes no tendency of that kind to the attractive force of either the earth on which they die, nor of the moon which solicits them from a distance of nearly a quarter of a million miles.

When the force of gravitation decreases inversely as the square of the distance over which it acts increases, the moon's attraction is very much less at the distance of the earth than on the surface of the moon itself.

Nevertheless the amount of the lunar attraction on the water of the ocean is easily calculated and it is found to be quite sufficient to account for the tides that it raises in addition to the attraction of the earth.

When the moon's attraction upon a point on the earth's surface situated directly under the moon's place in the sky is thus calculated it is found to amount to about an eight and a half millionth part of the earth's attraction at the same point. This is enough to account for the tides.
